

What Are External Hemorrhoids?

Hemorrhoids or Piles is a medical condition, which is marked by enlarged tissue near the area of rectum. It is also characterized by bleeding, which usually occurs, whilst passing of stools. If you are suffering from this condition, then it might prove to be a very difficult situation for you. It would not only disturb your daily routine, but might also interfere with your work as well.

This problem, the blood vessels of the rectum could easily get dilated due to the pressure exerted on the rectal veins. As a result of this, the muscles which support the hemorrhoidal vessels, get enlarged like bubbles, possibly inside the rectal canal, or around the anus. The situation is believed to be very common in the us and according to a rough estimate; about fifty percent of the population in the us is experiencing the condition.

The Condition can be Broadly Categorized Under Two Categories, I.E

internal hemorrhoids and external hemorrhoids. Internal hemorrhoids are usually not painful, as a result of the lack of nerve endings in the rectum. As a matter of fact, a number of people are not even aware, that they are suffering from internal piles, till they get irritating, and lead to bleeding, during the passing of tools. With the stool rubbing against internal piles, ruptures tend to be caused, which results in bleeding. External hemorrhoids on the other hand are characterized by swollen veins in the form soft lumps around the anal opening. In case of progression of blood clots, this particular lump may turn hard and become really painful. Exterior hemorrhoids are generally very painful. This is because, the skin tissues around the anal opening is thickly covered with nerve endings.

“

Natural Cures For Hemorrhoid A visit to the pharmacy will reveal a number of over the counter products open to treat hemorrhoids; however there are also various natural remedies available to assist in treating this not comfortable and often embarrassing condition Two simple...

Of the two kinds of hemorrhoids, or perhaps piles, external piles is actually the most common. Since it is very painful, therefore, it frequently interferes in one's day to day activity. There are a number of external hemorrhoid treatment options, which are available for the treatment of external piles. Nevertheless, the best thing to do, in such a scenario, is to ensure a proper dose of fiber and roughage in your diet. This would be helpful in warding off constipation and consequently, it would be helpful in easing of the piles related pain.

You are suffering from hemorrhoids then twenty four hours a day visit a hemorrhoid doctor

“ Kory S. Ford

Kory is a writer at utitreatment.info, a web site about alternative health issues. Last year, Kory worked as a post curator for a well-known high tech web site. When he's not researching content, Kory enjoys working out and roller skating.

Disclaimer: Content in this document is an advertisement, therefore it may be biased and should not be considered an objective or independent review. Owner of this document may be compensated when you purchase a product by clicking a link in this document. The views and opinions expressed in this document are purely of the author. Any product claim or other representation about a product or service should be verified with the manufacturer, provider or party in question. Any health information in this document is for educational purposes only and is not intended to replace the advice of your health care provider.